

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A plurality of electrodes are adapted to be attached on a living body. An electric pulse is output through the electrodes as an electric stimulation to 5 the living body. An analyzer is operable to detect a waveform of the electric pulse and to analyze a parameter of the waveform. A display displays the parameter together with one of the waveform and a model waveform which is an invariable waveform representative of the electric pulse.